

THE WONDER OF WILDFLOWERS

Though adorned in dazzling colors and
Fashioned into intricate designs,
The true wonder of a wildflower is its fanciful, free-spirit,-
Dispensing wisdom as it grows,
Silently suggesting how we might better live.

Nothing is impossible preaches the lone wildflower
That pushes its way thru a hairline crack in cement
And blooms as if being nurtured by a skilled horticulturist.

Bloom where you are planted is the message given
By wildflowers thriving along a litter infested highway:
Persevere thru hard times. Live to make others smile.

Seize the moment is the lesson taught by spring wildflowers
That take advantage of available sunlight
Before the trees weave dense canopies overhead.

Courageous is the wildflower that dares to display its colors
On a meticulously manicured lawn,
Valiantly reminding us to coexist in peaceful harmony.

Be respectful of the wildflowers that, despite “total kill”
Rise from the ashes and regenerate.
Learn by their example: Life can and will continue,
Even when all seems lost.
