

The Outdoors and me

What most inspires me most about nature is how it makes me feel inside. Even on rainy days, going outside makes me feel like nothing is going to be bad that day. What I like most in nature is going outside and flipping rocks and seeing what's under the rock. I never know what I am going to find. Once I found the red phase of the redback salamander that is limited to northeastern Ohio at West Woods. I love to go outside and dig in a dirt pile. I find lots of worms, centipedes, slugs, and beetles. I love to go to Penitentiary Glen and go to a little pond just off the trail and use my net to catch frogs, tadpoles, and newts. That is what I like about nature and what inspires me most in nature.
