

The Pollution

Once there were flowers, trees, beautiful birds, and much much more.

Before when the pollution came. Mother Nature tried to battle it. But was unsuccessful. Who did this? Yes, it's the humans. They did not know that they were harming their own planet. And they were careless. And this is what happened, we have to wear gas masks everyday now. If we dont we can't breathe, and that means die. The year is 2049. All of the remaining wildlife are kept in labs where we study them and find a way to duplicate them without any harm. My name is Amy and I am part of the scout team. Today we had found a way for our antidote to work! We found something called nature juice. We came there very easily, but when we tried to come back and things started to get weird and tragic. The first thing that happened was when Angus accidently walked on something that looked like black pudding.

He was immediately pierced in the chest by a sharp arm and the rest of our team were immediately running with no doubt. But next some mutated creatures started to run towards our team. We do not know about anything except it is made by the thing that destroyed the earth. Pollution. Suddenly they grabbed Zoe with their long arms and it disappeared. When we saw our facility we ran in there as fast as we could and immediately went upstairs. We told the head leader that mutants were attacking us but he did not believe it. But then a black goo grabbed him through the window and he disappeared. Desperately tried to go to the research lab but it was blocked. The only way left was to travel to the second facility. Then she could make the serum and save the world but it won't be easy. She immediately ran as far as she could away from the first facility but it was too late. The mutants were catching up! It seemed like she was going to die but a missile came and destroyed the mutants. The helicopter came down and rescued her. And they explained everything about the mutants backstory. When they came to the facility they had to check if she had any viruses, fortunately she did not have any viruses. The headmaster expected her to come. She tells about the serum and how it can save the world. The survivors and the researchers went to the research room. They poured the surum into the jar and mixed it with the growing pill. Slowly but surely the earth will be saved. 200 years later... Amy and the researchers are all recognized as the world's most famous people. They all took part in saving the world. Now nature is restored. Endangered species are not endangered anymore,the trees are all very healthy now, animals in zoos are released now, and the world is much greener now. The world is a very good place. As for the mutants their fate was not as lucky. They were bombed with biodegradeble heavy bombs. All died except one. This mutant was the king and was kept in a lv 10000 security prison and is guarded in the USA.

The fate of the humans seems very good. For now at least.
